Mrs. Palmer replied: "We have come back just exactly at the time we planned; we could only make a very short visit and had to do that or remain at home altogether, so we took the alternative of going, although it was rather unsatisfactory. When I saw how much could be accomplished by a few words to the committees of ladies in the countries that I visited, I was extremely sorry that it was not possible to remain longer in order to go to those countities where the ladies are less experienced in organizing general work. Perhaps it would have been a great and Mrs. Tyssen-Amberst will have charge of the number of the comments will have charge of the number of the countries that I was not possible to remain longer in order to go to those countries where the ladies are less experienced in organizing general work. Perhaps it would have been a great work and practical, and certainty to Italy and Turkey. I went really only to London, Pursis, view of the subject of the change but in the present time this is more useful and important than the routine of office work at home, although that is important too.

"At home we block out the general plans and send them to all parts of the world. The work is a breat and them to all parts of the world. The work is a breat work and the women are so inexperient look what to take hold of, else on which we want them to work and consumently to explair a little and put thinks before them in the right light is very important, otherwise the woned were extremely interested as soon as thereard or our plans and they realized the opportunity and what it means for industrial women. she considered it inconsistent to go outside to do for a strange country what she was not doing for her own. When I saw her this year and told her of the eminent ladies who were the patronesses in their countries, she felt at once as I did that France ought not to hold back and treat the matter with less courtesy and consideration than it received elsewhere. She consequently agreed to be the patroness of the committee, but only on the condition that it suited her exactly. She wanted to be sure that no antagon-istic or radical elements of which she would disapprove would be incorporated in it. This has rather tied the hands of all the ladies who were so much interested last year, because no one is sure of being on the committee now, and they are all remaining which I hope will be within a week.

"Mme. Carnot will be the President of Honor and heir proposition was that M. Berger, so well known in connection with Exposition work, should be the active "I thought that this was inconsistent, as they had so many able women, and they will probably conclude to put a woman at the head of the committee but M. Berger will really direct its movements. "In France, although the women are so advanced, entirely by women. Their organizations are all mixed, composed of men and women both. When the very able and experienced women that I met were talking of the work they seemed consequently frightened at having to undertake it alone.

"In July there will be opened in the Palais de l'Industrie what will prove an admirable preparation for the work of next year; this is the exhibit of the arts and industries of women, and is under the direc-tion of M. Berger. They are gathering everything that is notable done by women in France and also many interesting objects from other countries, and it will undoubtedly be very suggestive to all who have the opportunity of studying it. I was extremely sorry that I could not remain until the time for opening.

"In Russia the committee is composed of three ladies appointed by the Empress herself, who is taking great interest in their plans. The president is Mmc. Vischnegradsky, the wife of the Imperial Minister of Finance. The Princess Narischkine has introduced lace-making upon her own estates and has promoted peasant labor in a very remarkable way, and they are very anxious to send from Russia a full representation of the very wonderful laces and embroideries made "In Germany, her Royal Highness the Princes Frederick Charles, downger of the late great Field Mar-shal, is the president of honor. Their whole committee is formed of the most experienced and practical women in Germany. At the head of the educational branch is Helen Lange, who is a woman of great dis tingtion and who will make a very brilliant showing for that section. "In Italy, because of the interrupted diplomatic relations, the Queen herself took the initiative, and offered to send her rare collection of old laces and also the work being done by the peasant women of to-day. They hope to be able to sell some of these modern laces done by the peasants, and help their industries on in that way. "In Austria we are not yet sure of having a woman's committee; the Austrians have been more woman's committee; the Austrians have been more hurt over our tariff enactments than most of the other countries, and while they accepted the invita-tion they voted such a very small sum for the Ex-position work that they do not want to sub-divide it by giving any portion of it to a committee of women. It is only a farce to appoint a committee of women without giving them some money to work with, and they will either have to make a special appropriation for them or else give up the plan of aaving any woman's committee. It is under dis-cussion now, and I hope it will result in their de-making the celebrated Bohemian glass, are very much interested that the women's committee should much interested that the women's committee should be formed. All of these people are using their influence with the Minister of Finance to have the Appropriation made. Marquis de Exequebeim is the Minister of Finance and the president of the Austrian commission for the Exposition, so that it all rests in his hands in case Parliament votes the ey. I had an interview with him, and he was and Mrs. Grant are promoting the formation of the committee by every means in their power. "In Brussels, where the Minister had been very astic. They had received our invitation sent each; the Aldermen will decide by lot at the meet-through the Department of State, and I was much ing on Wednesday which of the two from each ward araging, I found the ladies were very enthusithrough the Department of State, and I was much urged to go to Brussels in order to meet the Queen and the Countess of Flanders and the various ladies who were urging the appointment of the committee. "I passed forty-eight hours in Brussels on my way to London. My appointments were all made for me in advance by the Countess De Denterghem. Maid of Honor to the Queen, so that with very little loss of time I accomplished all that was necessary. loss of time I accomplished all that was necessary.

THE PRESIDENT'S SUNDAY.

Washington, June 12.—President Harrison attended services to day at the Church of the Covenant, his regular place of worship. He was accompanied by the Rev. Dr. Scott, his venerable father-in-law. There was a large number of persons at the church. During the remaining portion of the day the President was with Mrs. Harrison. Mrs. Harrison ontinues to improve slowly, and to-day was able to walk from one room to another.

John C. New called on the Fresident during the evening and congratulated him on his renomination.

The city of Mount Vertion will officially change it political complexion on Wednesday, when the Mayor, Aldermen and other officers elected at the first city cussion now, and I hope it will result in their deciding to appoint a committee, as there are so many Austrian ladies who are anxious to have the work one.

The outcome of the recent experiments at Toynbea Hall, London, in holding an art exhibition led the New-Yorkers to the conclusion that a similar undertaking here could be made even more successful, and to this end they have perfected a loan collection which would be a credit to any of the uptown galleries and which would anywhere command attention and re-spect. Something like 100 of the highest class paintings are being placed in position in two large rooms at No. 77 Allenst., and will be there exhibited free of charge to the poor people of the densely populated East Side. THE CANALS OF THE STATE.

WEALTHY PEOPLE LENDING THEIR TREASURES IMPERATIVE REASONS WHY THEY SHOULD BE IMPROVED AND PROTECTED.

To the Editor of The Tribune. the great mesters without expense. It is believed by the and people who have this experiment in hand that it will prove phenomenally successful, and that the social prove phenomenally successful, and that the social element to whom, as a rule, the examination of the instance in this fall, you call attention to the necessity of lengthening the locks and deepening the channels of the canals, and of the great importance to the combighest examples of art is a matter of rare occurrence will embrace this exceptional opportunity with zeal. It is made the dense population of the East Side which has been little understood by the general public, but its promoters, from the excellent results they feel they are engaged. This is what is have accomplished, have been encouraged to extend the details and increase the field for social and economic study in which they are engaged. This is what is to Lake Eric. It is well known that the fortifications on the University Settlement Society, which, fashioned after the social experiments of Toynbee and the locks lengthened wooden garbout on the lakes. Oxford Halls in London, was instituted as a centre of the work for college-bred men in the tenement-house districts, bearing the same relation to political economy and social science as the hospital does to medicine. districts, bearing the same relation to political economy and social science as the hospital does to medicine or the field to the study of engineering.

Here men live for study and improvement of themselves and their fellow-men, cultivating friendly relations between the educated and uneducated, and gradually uplifting the latter by the better influences thus brought to bear upon them. The work had its start here in what was known as the Neighborhood Guild, at No. 147 Forsyth-st. where Dr. Stanton in the Britain that but one vessel shall be kept on the lakes by each nation. But in the event of any difficulty arising between the two countries it is within the power of England at once to send munboats, and, in fact, good-sized vessels of wur, into Welland Canal: while the United States could do little or nothing, owing to the length of time it takes to construct and arm even the smallest gunboat. If vessels up the Hudson and through the Eric Canal to the lakes, we would be on a much more even fooding, and this might be the most economical way of providing for the defence of our lake coasts.

In this view of the case the great importance to the State and country of maintaining intact all the feeders to this canal becomes apparent. The resolution adopted by the Canal Convention in 1886 to absolute necessity for the retention and control by the State of New-York and the City of New-York of the State of New York and the City of New-York of the vart domestic commerce of the country, and we demand that this canal shall be enlarged and im-proved, to make fully available the last drop of water that the skill of modern engineering can supply, to enable the passage through it of loots of the largest need he made in the largest need he supply, to enable the passage through it of bouts of the largest possible capacity," clearly indicates not only the great importance of retaining for the canals all present supplies of water held as feeders, but that the last drop of water that the skill of modern engineering can supply should be madefully available to enable the passage through it of bouts of the largest possible capacity. Under these circumstances it would seem that the recent action of the Legislature in passing a fall to allow the city of syncuse to draw its water supply from shaneateles Loke is fully reprehensible and as great a blow to the canal interests of the State as the action of Governor Flower in vetoing the "Canal Improvement Isili." Shaneateles Lake is the main supply of the Jordan level of the Erde Canal, which is one of the herbest levels. The loss of this water would be of great injury to the canal, possibly irrepurable. It is also held by residents of Syracuse that other sources, equally convenient as to situation, are available and the water more suitable in some respects for the general use of the city. Shaneateles water is hard, and not the best for manufacturing purposes. It is true the bill referred to, as interpreted by the courts, permits only the surplus water to be taken by the city. Admitting that there is a surplus now which I understand is doubtfull, would that surplus be sufficient for a rapidly growing city like Syracuse ten years from now? Also, if the canal should be enlorged by deepening its channels and lengthending its locks, would there then be any surplus at all. It is of the greatest importance that all sources of water supply over which the canals now have any control should be diverted to the surplus very long, should not be diverted to the supply of any large and growing cities when any other possible supply of good water is available. It is to be hoped that the coming Canal Convention will take this matter up and save the water; otherwise "Improvement of the Canals may be impreciable."

the grounds of the Lenox Teanls Clab, one hundred and twenty-third-st, and st. Nicholas ave. The ladies' doubles were also played off on the courts of the Fifth Avenue Teacles Clab, One hundred and twenty seventh st. and Fifth ave. In the former the feature of the day was the elever playing of voung Wveth, who won first prize. His strokes were accurate, and he played a swift and a "safe" game with equal skill. Thurber, one of the scratch men of the tournament, made a splendid fight in his match against Simpson, who by the war? was allowed too much handlesp. To the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: What manner of argument does the colored citizen of our city introduce to justify himself in voting the Democratic ticket? It is a constant source of wonderment to me, how any one can be a Demorat when such a party as the Republican exists, and when it comes to a colored man joining the party, the majority of which lave always been against him, and thereby deserting the ranks of those who have made him what he is, I feel lost in amazement.

SUGAR HOUSE PRISON.

To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: I have seen frequent mention of the Sugar House Prison as in the rear of the Middle Dutch Church, which stood in Nassau-st., between Cedar and Liberty. This month, an old building at the corner of Rose and Daane sts .- entrance from Rose-bas been removed, and it is claimed that it was the prison. I incline to that view myself. But that building could not, properly, be said myself. But that building could not, properly, he said to be in the rear of the Middle Church. Was there another sugar house; and was not it also a prison? I am informed that there was no object sugar house in New York in Revolutionary times. My grandfather was a prisoner in the sugar house—hence my interest. Brooklyn, May 30, 1892.

AN APPEAL FOR THE BABIES' HOSPITAL. To the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: I was so much interested by the article on the Babies' Hospital in last Sunday's Tribune, and I have been so much exercised in mind ever since in regard to the bables who need to go there and for whom there is no present accommodation, that I can-not any longer refrain from asking The Tribune's cowhom there is no present accommodation, that I cannot any longer refrain from asking The Tribune's cooperation in raising a fund (similar to that excellent work of kindness known as The Tribune's Fresh Air Fund) to be called the Baby Hospital Fund. Can The Tribune spare us a little space for such a purpose! I feel sure that every mother among the many thousand Tribune renders will send a subscription: If only 25 cents from 10,000 how welcome the whole sum will be to the Baby Hospital. Please to receive the enclosed to start a fund for the sick bables. June 4, 1892.

Ealtimore, June 12 (Special).-Senator Gorman's tilinde toward Mr. Cleveland in the convention at attitude toward Mr. Cleveland in the convention as Chicago next week is a problem now agitating the Maryland politicians. Three months ago Mr. Gorman's friends said he would not be a delegate to the Chicago Convention and would retire as the Maryland member of the National Committee. It was given out by his lleutenants that he could not even attend the convention, and that the Maryland delegation would be solid for Cleveland. Three weeks ago Mr. Gorman went to New-York and conferred with the Tammany leaders. On his return there was a change apparent in his position. The announcement was made that Mr. Gorman would go to the convention, and that eight instead of four delegates-at-large would be chosen by the State convention. It was, however, denied that the senator would be a delegate. To the surprise of the Cleveland followers, and the Gorman men as of the Cleveland followers, and the Gorman men as well, the state Convention last Tuesday chose the Senator as one of the cight delegates at large, and he will head the delegation. Last week Mr. Gorman paid another visit to New-York, and his friends adtalk with the Tammany men, and another of his advisors asserts that he went to New York to meet several of Mr. Cleveland's friends, and that they came to an agreement that the Maryland Scnator came to an agreement that the Maryland Senator should use his influence to solidify the Southern Helegations for Cleveland. The fact, however, that in spite of the general sentiment of the Democratic voters of Maryland for Cleveland, the State Convention, under the direct control of Gorman, refused to instruct the delegates for Cleveland, shows that Gorman proposes secretly, if not openly, to antagonize the nomination of Cleveland. Hundreds of lithographs of Gorman will be carried to Chicago by the Maryland Clubs for distribution.

DED HE PUSH HIS WIFE FROM THE WINDOW? Margaret McKidden, thirty-two years old, living at side window last night at 11:30 o'clock. She struck No. 13 with such force as to cause a concussion of the spine and contusion of the body. She was taken to the Long Island College Rospital, where it was found that her condition was critical. James McKidden, her husband, was arrested, as he was drunk at the time, and it was thought that the woman's fall might not have been altogether accidental.

WOULD HILL TAKE SECOND PLACE!

A lot of small fry politicians were awalting the ar-rival of Senator Hill at a late hour last night at the Hoffman House. It was reported that Mr. Hill was oming to consult his partisans about dropping to the Vice-Presidential nomination provided some satisfactory Western Democrat could be nominated for the first place on the ticket. The name of John M. Palmer, of Illinois, was spoken of as Mr. Hill's choice. The effect of such a deal, if carried out, would be of course to dispose of Mr. Cleveland as a Presidential

THE CARNEGIE STEEL COMPANY'S SCALE. Pittsburg, June 12.-The Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers has received from the Carnegie Steel Company, Limited, of Homestead, the firm's scale for work in the ensuing year. In the open hearth furnaces the firm calls for a reduction of 10 per cent from the present rate, and in the armof plate department 20 per cent off the old basts. In the plate mill the minimum is reduced from $25 to $22, and in this mill there is also a general reduction of 15 to 50 per cent. It is thought that there will s no change in the price for puddling. The rate s now $5.50 per ton, and there's little support to a novement to advance it to $0.50.
